Mirell and Mrs. Ray Lytle, Little Caroline and Elizabeth Porter, Marjorie Ann Ashe and Virginia Sellers, wearing delicate frocks of pink, green and lavender, assisted in serving and later rendered piano numbers.

Honest Advertising

THIS is a topic we all bear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher honestly advertised. Honestly placed before the public, and from which he honestly expects to receive his reward.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Mrs. D. E. Miner, corresponding secretary, Miss Janet McCalpin. The women in charge of the organization were Mrs. William H. of Alverton; Mrs. C. H. Beall, wife of Rev. Beall of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Vanderpool; Mrs. J. P. Strickler of Scottdale and Mrs. W. S. Bohanna. Several vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Clarence McCormick. The society had a very successful year, according to reports submitted.

Mrs. Decker Hostess. Mrs. Harry Decker delightfully entertained the West Side Needeworkers last night at her home in South Ninth street, Greenwood. The evening was enlivened by a game of cards. The hostess served dainty refreshments.

Mother and Daughter Reception.

About 100 persons attended the mother and daughter reception held last evening in the United Brethren Church for mothers and daughters of the church. An attractive program, under the leadership of Mrs. W. R. Kooser was rendered. The purpose of the reception was to commemorate the fifty years of missionary work in the United Brethren denomination and to emphasize the relationship of mother and daughter and to lead them to consecrate themselves now to the work of the Woman's Missionary Association, composed of women of the church, and the Otterbein Guild, consisting of the younger women of the church. Mrs. G. E. Leonard read the jubilee message. Mrs. W. E. Bissell rendered a vocal solo and a dialogue, "A Midnight Fantasy," was presented by Mary Custerway and Helen Miller.

PITTSBURGH MAN IS APPOINTED "KLIM" AGENT

W.C. Amend gets Klim Sales for Western Pennsylvania

LOOKING FOR ASSISTANTS NOW

William C. Amend who has offices at 506 Jenkins Avenue Building, being conducted by his name, finds himself having been appointed as General Distributor for Klim milk for the Western part of Pennsylvania. Mr. Amend's years of experience as a Klim salesman make him an invaluable man in his new capacity.

Chance to Get a Klim Agency: In speaking of his appointment the other day, he said that his primary interest right now was to find good live men and women throughout the state who were willing to represent Klim. Considerable handwringing is being made, but he pointed out that there were thousands of cities and towns in the state where Klim is known to the housewives, and he wants an agent in each town. It certainly is a good chance for men who are looking for something to work on, or for women who would like spare time work. From what Mr. Amend says, the work is easy and interesting, and pays well. He wants to hear from any man or woman who is interested.

How to Get Klim Now

Until the Pittsburgh and state organization of distributors is solidly in place, Mr. Amend wants it known that he is ready to ship Klim by parcel post to the many Pennsylvania who are using it now. The prices which will prevail for these parcel post shipments are as follows:

Klim whole milk 1 lb. $.70
" " " 25 lbs. 1.46
" " " 5 lbs. 2.80
Klim skimmed milk " .53
" " " 25 lbs. 1.35
" " " 5 lbs. 1.60

Until there is an agent in your town, send Mr. Amend your order, together with a money order to his address given in the first part of this article.

New Organization Means Much

"With every little town in Pennsylvania having a Klim Distributor, Mr. Amend went on to say, "much will be accomplished towards giving the different communities a steady supply of good country fresh milk."

"According to figures recently compiled, many of the farms in the state have no cows. That means that good, fresh milk like Klim is needed. Before the unusually high standard of purity and quality some of our greatest baby specialists are recommending it for infant feeding. You can be sure that the value of such a product will be quickly recognized by Pennsylvania housewives. It is just what is needed to supply enough milk for everyone."

Cokers Meet Herron Hill Malones Second Game of Season Here Tomorrow

Independents Feel Confident of Showing Better Form
This Week.

DUNAWAY TO BE TWIRLER

By James M. Driscoll
Sporting Editor.

The Connellsville Independents will make their second appearance before their home region supporters tomorrow afternoon when the strong Malones of Pittsburgh will be here for a game. A victory over the visiting outfit will be quite a feat and the Cokers are confident they can turn the trick.

While the defeat at the hands of the Irwin nine last week was disappointing it did not impair the confidence of the players in their team. The Malones have been stepping lively this season and their visit will be the signal for another large crowd of fans to witness a fine ball game.

Early season games are always much slower in independent circles than in the leagues as players get but little pre-military training. Fans must make allowance for this. It was demonstrated last year by the Cokers who were late in getting under way, but no such time will be required this season. The Cokers should be showing their "stuff" by Memorial Day and from that time on big results are to be expected.

Dunaway, the Mount Braddock southpaw, will be on the mound. He has been getting his arm into shape and has worked in a number of games elsewhere this spring. The game pitched by Kosar last week was his first one and the former Whitney star was not yet going at his top form. By next week better result may be expected from him. Dunaway is a bearcat when he is going right and if his shots are working tomorrow afternoon the Malones will find themselves walking back to the bench in order.

More favorable weather is expected tomorrow afternoon and the game will be called at 3:30 o'clock. The Coker Indians will arrive somewhat earlier than that and will be in fine trim for the contest.

The West Side Grays defeated the North End Sluggers in a seven inning game on Tuesday. The score was 4-2. McCormick and Gallagher made up the North End battery and Stranglers and Robinson worked for the Grays. Carpenter got a three base hit with two men on the paths. The Grays are desirous of playing games with any junior team in the city or elsewhere. Write Bill Thompson, 502 West Crawford avenue, Connellsville, Pa.

The First Presbyterians and Luthers will play their first Church League game this evening at Fayette Field.

The opening of the horseshoe tournament of the W. A. Edie Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church, which was to have been last night, was postponed until next Tuesday evening because of rain.

Rain interfered with the game scheduled between the Poplar Grove Kiakidules and the Baltimore & Ohio Clerks for last evening at Poplar Grove. It will be played later.

The Dickerson Run baseball team would like to hear from any team in the Connellsville district, or from any other team from the age of 14 to 16 years. Write to George Stump, Dickerson Run.

Boxing has ended in Connellsville until next fall, the Connellsville Athletic Association announced. A few shows will be tried at the opening of the winter season and their continuance will depend entirely on whether or not the club is given the right support. If fans show their desire to have the game kept up here, the club will bring some of the classiest fighters ever seen in the city here.

Speaking of boxing and the support it gets in Connellsville, the following remark was overheard at the show here Tuesday evening. A fan looked at the slim crowd about him and said: "Gee, this looks like a private affair."

Those present at the fight appreciated the fact that the participants in the three bouts put forth their best efforts in spite of the poor house.

"Kid" Hanlon of Trotter may win a name for himself if he develops a better defense and mixes a little composure with his fighting instinct. He almost knocked himself in the third round Tuesday when he rushed Turner like wild for a time and practically winded himself. He carries a healthy whipping but in his anxiety to catch the gorilla lost his bearings and did not calm down until he was tired.

Owensdale baseball team will play Layton at Layton Saturday afternoon.

If ball fans in Connellsville do not get enough of the game to satisfy them it is because they are too lazy to walk to a playing field. There are contests every night in the week now, with both City League and Church League games scheduled, and letters are flying practically every night and

CASE FOR JUDGE LANDIS

Commissioner Landis is likely to have a problem on his hands. Joe Eakes, first baseman of the Hixson, Miss., team of the Cotton States league was preparing for his morning bath. He did not understand the operation of the bathroom gas heater, for it exploded—as did also the proprietor of the boarding house.

A heated argument ensued; so heated as to make the exploded heater appear a piker. Every body chattered in. At the end Manager Crichton handed Eakes the unconditional release.

"Not on account of your ball playing," moaned he, "but because of spontaneous combustion."

At the TheatresTHE SOJOURN.

"WOMAN'S PLACE," a First National picture with Constance Talmadge in a delightful role. The sprightly and capricious Constance romps through several reels of the brightest and most entertaining comedy it has been the writer's good fortune to see in many days. The sparkling wit and subtle satire of John Emerson and Anita Loos, who wrote the story for Constance, stand out plainly and in point of merit second only to the delightful interpretation which the star has given her part. Miss Talmadge has the role of Josephine Gerson, a pretty young lady who on her return from Paris is induced to run as a candidate for mayor of the town. The male opposition selects a young aristocrat to run against the charming candidate. A laughable chain of events follows, not the least extraordinary of which is that the boss of the opposition party falls in love with her. Miss Talmadge is given excellent support in the cast. Kenneth Harlan is her leading man in the role of Jim Bradley, the political leader. Hassard Short enacts the part of Freddy Bleeker, rival candidate of Josephine Gerson. Other prominent players are Florence Short, Ira Rork, Marguerite Linden and Jack Connelly. The picture will also be shown tomorrow.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE SILENT VOW" with William Duncan in the leading role, provides splendid entertainment today and tomorrow at this theatre. Perhaps William Duncan has never had a production which was more trying or which brought out the salient points of his acting as does "The Silent Vow," in which he assumes a dual role. He plays father and son and presents a picture with some double exposure which has been heretofore regarded as impossible—that of a character crossing the center line in a double exposure scene. The dynamiting of a river, three men and a canoe being carried over a great falls to destruction, fist fights, intense dramatic scenes, a stirring love story of the great outdoors, daring feats of horsemanship and massive sets in which spectacular scenes are enacted, are a few of the high lights in this great production of the Northwest Mounted Police. Edith Johnson, William Duncan's fair co-star plays opposite the director in this thrilling story of the Northwest in which fights, daring feats of horsemanship and great thrills abound. It is a story that will appeal to everyone who likes the great outdoors.

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE PRINCESS OF NEW YORK," the feature picture today and tomorrow, is a Paramount picture with David Powell and Mary Givney in the leading roles. The plot has to do with the adventures of an American heiress daughter of a steel king on a trip to Europe, involving an introduction to London society. With the atmosphere centered around English scenes, the facilities of the English studio located in the heart of London were especially suited for the filming of this story. Some of England's best known landmarks are incorporated in the plot which includes a trip to classic Oxford and scenes on the banks of the Thames and about the Houses of Parliament. Director Crisp assembled a capable cast for "The Princess of New York." Miss Mary Givney who has a reputation throughout England as a young actress of charm and personality, plays the title role. Opposite her in the leading male role is David Powell, who was formerly co-featured with Mrs. Murray in Paramount's British productions. Mr. Powell has the part of a lovable Oxford undergraduate.

Grow Your Own Vitamines

Have you taken your vitamins to-day?

This is now the pertinent question to be considered at meal time by all those interested in the proper diet to furnish efficient upkeep for the human machine. A short time back the health obsessionists were greatly worried about their calories. They measured them out and ate according to calory prescription.

Now the vitamin is the big idea. Just what a vitamin is has not yet been definitely determined, but chemists and dieticians know that it is something in food particularly vegetables and fruits that is a cell builder and without which food and nourishment are incomplete. Lack of vitamins leads to scurvy according to latest discoveries.

Grow your own vitamins. Green vegetables—that is, vegetables eaten raw, contain plenty of them—lettuce in particular. Dieticians agree that the widespread lettuce habit is one of the best things that ever happened to us for healthful dining. Cooked vegetables also contain these mysterious subjects if they are not overcooked, too often a fault in vegetable cooking. Another for a vitamin is found in good real butter and milk. Cooking a fresh vegetable is not too long and dressing it with real butter or in cream will human machine up with vitamins to keep it going at top speed.

A vitamin garden is in effect a salad garden if one wants to get his needed vitamins the easiest and quickest way. A little garden of lettuce, tomatoes, celery, young onions, parsnips, endive, cress, corn salad, wit, leeks, cucumbers and so on for crisp fresh salads all year will fill the bill.

cast also includes such well known names as Ivo Dawson, Miss Dorothy Fane, George Belamy and Mrs. Sara Raleigh.

Careless Drivers Of Motors Must Pay Damages to Railway

As the result of a trial in the municipal court of Cleveland the Big Four railroad has been awarded judgment against the owners of a motor truck who started their machine on a grade crossing at West Park. O thereby causing a collision with a passenger train. The truck was so disabled and the railroad company so poorly damaged to the extent of $1,026.

In granting the railroad company judgment for this full amount of damages, the court took occasion to criticize the defendant for the negligent manner in which they operated their truck and called attention to the probability of such an accident

He went back through the kitchen. In the middle of the room he saw something dimly outlined on the floor. He struck a match and found Jules in a pool of blood. One side of his head had been almost battered to pieces with a hatchet that lay on the floor nearby.

And yet Jules was not dead, for as Wilton bent over him, he opened his eyes and smiled very faintly into his master's face. And the fingers of one outstretched hand quivered and pointed toward the offices.

Wilton raised Jules gently in his arms and carried him within, and laid him on the floor. The Indian was almost at his last gasp, and he seemed struggling to express something before he died.

The quivering fingers pointed upward. All that was left of life within the broken body seemed to be concentrated in them. Wilton watched them. The fingers squirmed and twisted. It seemed to Wilton that there was something in the room that Jules wanted. They were pointing now toward the desk. Wilton raised the Indian's hands in the arms and supported the shoulders against his knees; so that Jules might see.

Jules struggled straight at the desk. Looked up, and nodded. Wilton nodded. Jules seemed to have relaxed them, but the fingers still twisted, and now they pointed toward the wall behind. Wilton shifted his position, and raised the side of the lamp to illuminate the other half of the room.

The fingers wandered over the woodwork, and stopped upon the centerpiece of Lee Chambers that Jules had drawn. Jules shuddered, smiled up into Wilton's face, and nodded. Wilton nodded. Then Jules died.

CHAPTER XXI

Jollied.

Since Bowyer's last visit to the store, Molly had been making plans, but, when these were made, she did not dare to place them before the factor.

She knew that they could not long remain at the portage. There was his increasing infirmity; there was Tom Bowyer's enmity—menacing over his father, which was bringing him into his grave.

Yet she feared one of the factor's wild outbreaks of rage if she remained her suggestion that they should go to Winnipeg. On the other hand, gradually she began to believe that McDonald was forming plans of his own. If that were so, in the time and in his own way, he would talk to her about them.

Meanwhile she watched her father anxiously. He still dragged his leg as he walked, and the fear that was always upon him now had made him an old man within the past year. The girls love for him, which her humiliation at Bowyer's hands had never entirely killed, burned up again after she had won with Wilton.

But she wondered constantly what was the power that Bowyer had over her father. Had McDonald given her any encouragement; she would have spoken to him, and begged for an understanding that might remove the cloud which hung over them both. But the factor was more morose than ever, especially when the winter trading ended and time hung heavily upon their hands.

The talk came at last. McDonald was in his chair upstairs, Molly reading to him. But the factor did not seem to hear her; he was looking out of the window and brooding as of old. Suddenly he turned to her.

"I'm thinking of leaving here before winter," he said.

"Leaving here, father? For good?"

"For aye," he exploded. "I thought I'd die here and be laid beside your mother. And I've held on! God, how I've held on! But I'm done with that hope. Would I leave the portage, Molly?" he asked wistfully.

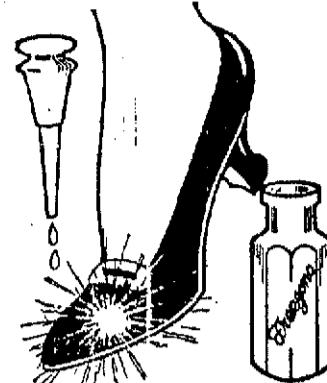

"Yes, father! I wish we could. I wish we could go somewhere together where we'd never have cause to remember it."

"Aye, never to remember it!" he echoed.

"To Winnipeg?" she suggested timidly.

CORN

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit. Drop a little "Prestone" on an aching corn. Instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with the fingers. Truly!

You just get a tiny bottle of "Prestone" for 15 cents, and use it to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the callous, without soreness or irritation.

"But you must arrange with the company for a new factor, and, if he hasn't trained—"

His clutch became convulsive. "Not a word!" he cried furiously. "Bewana I done weel by the company? It won't be the sufferer. If they think I was going away thid—not a word, lass! Promise me! Molly, lass, ye winae go back on me now!"

"No, I won't go back on you," she answered.

But she did not like the idea of stealing away, although the company would suffer little. And then there would be the forfeiture of his pension.

After a while they began to make preparations. They spoke of the journey as being weeks, instead of months away. Then came a night when the factor tapped at Molly's door. She dressed quickly and went out of her room, to see the whole skyline ablaze. Clouds of smoke were whirling down on them. Suddenly a rig with two horses came dashing across the portage and drew up at the door.

Molly recognized Lee Chambers and Hackett, and turned and faced them, though her heart was beating with fear.

"We've come for you, Miss McDonald," shouted Lee Chambers. "The fire's across the muskeg, and there won't be anything left of this store in twenty minutes. Come along!"

He started and gesticulated wildly, and seemed hardly master of himself, and seemed hardly master of himself. McDonald started and looked out through the smoke clouds. But as they approached the girl she drew herself away.

"It's not true!" she cried. "The fire's on the other side. Why should you come for us?"

"It really you'll be forced to a cluster of muskeg infarcts," yelled Chambers. "We've got no place to wait. We're going to drive you out of danger. Come along!"

"I won't come!" cried Molly. "Don't go with them, father. He's not speaking to them, father. He's not speaking to me!"

"Hackett pushed Chambers out of his way, and strides up to the door.

"I know that tree enough, what you said, Miss McDonald," he said. "The fire isn't this side—but Mr. Garrish is dying. They pulled him out of his shack. He's in a bad way. He'll just live till morning. He's calling for you."

"It'll burn out!" gasped Molly, looking at him with eyes of horror.

"It's gospel truth!" cried Chambers. "He can't live if he goes to him."

"Then why did you tell us as we went?" asked the girl, searching his face and looking to the bottom of his eyes.

"Because we wanted to break it gently," shouted Hackett. He seized her by the arm. "We haven't time to waste!" he shouted. "He may die any minute while we're talking here."

"He didn't mention it," cried Chambers. "He can't live if he goes to him."

"Then why did you tell us as we went?" asked the girl, searching his face and looking to the bottom of his eyes.

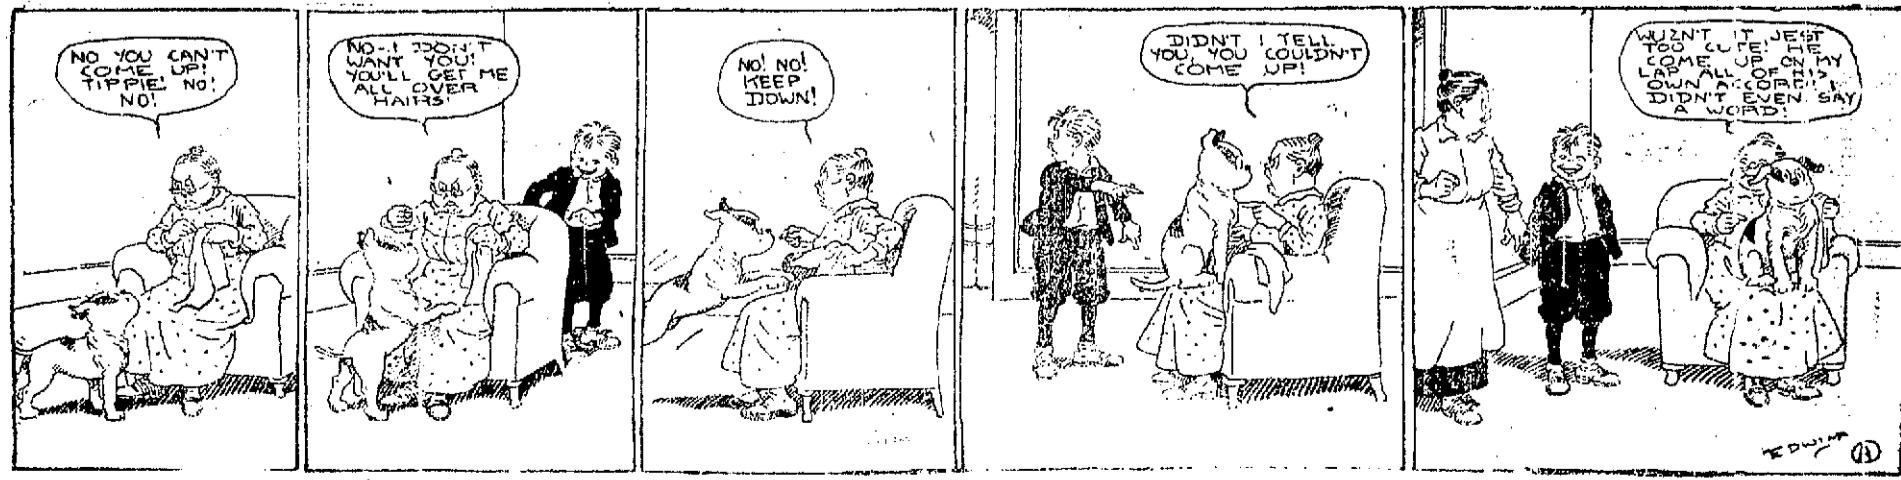

"Because we wanted to break it gently," shouted Hackett. He seized her by the arm. "We haven't time to waste!" he shouted. "He may die any minute while we're talking here."

Rail Consumption
Of Coal at a Lower
Rate Than a Year Ago

Consumption of coal is road service by Class 1 railroads during February approximated 8,545,918 net tons, an according to data compiled by the Bureau of Statistics of the Interstate Commerce Commission from 164 reports of freight statistics representing 136 roads and from 162 reports of passenger statistics representing 177 roads. During the corresponding month of 1921 the fuel consumed totalled 8,377,348 tons of coal. These figures include an equivalent column for fuel oil consumed.

For the two months ended with February these roads consumed 17,469,196 tons compared with 18,483,813 tons in 1921, a decrease of 1,030,646 tons. The revenue and non-revenue freight ton-miles increased from 54,733,000,000 in 1921 to 55,441,000,000 this year, and passenger-train car-miles decreased from 568,206,000 to 531,031,000.

Offerings and Demand Are Very Much Limited as the Market Becomes Narrower

Shipments Being Made On a Number of Furnace Contracts.

SPOT IS A SHADE EASIER

Fogion Coal Market Makes Further and Still Advance Due to Heavy Demand, Chiefly From East; By-Product Plants Increase Coke Production

Special to The Weekly Courier

PITTSBURG, May 17.—The coke market continues to be a very narrow affair, with offerings quite limited and demand likewise quite limited, the result being that market prices do not move to any extent. On the whole the market is a shade easier this week, furnace coke being obtainable at say 25 cents less than a week ago while foundry coke is not notably changed.

The increase in coke production during the past fortnight, confined almost exclusively to the H. C. Frick Coke Company, has not been enough to make any material difference in the market. There are very fair shipments being made from day to day on a number of furnace coke contracts. No furnace has been reported banked or blown out in the past two weeks on account of failure of coke supply, while one furnace, banked in April on account of strikes in the Connellsville region, has resumed operations, with a supply of by-product coke.

There is no regular inquiry for coke from blast furnaces, the price that would have to be paid being too high to interest furnaces, which have low-priced iron obligations to fill. Occasionally one or two furnaces might buy a few carloads to supplement their current supplies. Demand from the miscellaneous consumers, who never take an important tonnage, is also light. The market is quoted approximately as follows:

Spot furnace $6.20-$6.50

Spot foundry $6.75

The by-product coke plants are getting coal from unusual sources to supplement their stocks, and on the whole seem to be increasing their production somewhat over their average rate of operation in April. A report has been in general circulation that a large tonnage of Alabama coke has been purchased for use chiefly at blast furnaces in Ohio, but official confirmation of such reports is absolutely refuted.

Three blast furnaces of the Carnegie Steel Company that were banked early in April, two at Mingo and one at Sharon, have resumed, giving the company 35 furnaces in operation against 34 on April 1. Clinton is making more coke, the coking time having been reduced, while the Lorain by-product plant is shipping coke to one Valley furnace of the United States Steel Corporation.

Large quantities of West Virginia coal have been bought for use in the Pittsburgh district, and some "emergency" freight rates have been made, there being no rates in existence to cover these altogether unusual movements of "carrying coals to New Castle." Some Kentucky coal may come to the district, but apparently none has been moved thus far.

In the past two days the Connellsville coal market has undergone a still further advance, not on account of decreases in offerings but on account of insistent heavy demand, chiefly from the east. Some railroad buying is included in the eastern demand, it being stated that the railroads must have some high volatile coal, particularly for passenger locomotive service, and cannot secure the desired quality east of the Connellsville region.

Compared with the market of a week ago, Connellsville steam coal has advanced an even dollar a ton, being now quoted at $4.25 to $4.50. While three weeks or so ago an advance to a much lower level caused local buyers to decrease their demand, the present advance does not seem to discourage the eastern buyers. In some quarters it is predicted that steam coal will be $5.00 by the end of the week.

The pig iron market has been quite inactive, on account of the high prices that would have to be paid on a forced purchase, but one or two sales of basic iron have been made, at $35. Valley, an advance of $1 over the market quoted a week ago, when all grades were nominally $34. There is a market price of $26, Valley, on Bessemer, which in the absence of actual transactions is commonly considered the market. Foundry iron has sold in small lots at $24, the nominal price quoted a week ago. While the market is very narrow it is now felt that there are definite quotations representing values at the moment, as follows:

Bar iron $34.00
Basic $35.00
Foundry $24.00

These prices are f. o. b. Valley furnace, freight to Pittsburgh being $1.96.

Various predictions are made as to
